Individual Interagency Intervention Plan

Overview of the Guidebook

The Individual Interagency Intervention Plan (IIIP) Guidebook was developed to provide assistance, guidance and direction for the development of a IIIP to address the concerns and needs of children, youth and young adults with disabilities and their families.

The IIIP Guidebook includes:

- History of Interagency Collaboration
- Legislative authority
- The IIIP Framework
- Guidelines for the use of the IIIP
- Samples of IIIP forms
- Instructions for using the IIIP forms
- Inventory of plans elements integrated into the IIIP

The IIIP Guidebook, the IIIP and other guideline materials are available on the MnSIC (Minnesota System of Interagency Coordination) website www.mnsic.org.

History of Interagency Collaboration

Minnesota has a history of interagency collaboration and coordination of services on behalf of children/youth with disabilities.

- The Family Service Collaboratives have as a potential target population all children/youth, including those with special needs.
- The Children's Mental Health Collaboratives address the needs of children/youth with severe emotional disturbance.
- IDEA (Individuals with Disabilities Education Act) Part C addresses the needs of infants and toddlers up to age 3 with disabilities.
- The 1995 Omnibus Education Act called for a study on how to realign state and request federal waivers to improve service delivery and promote integration and collaboration between the education and human services system.
- The 1996 the report to the MN Legislature on Interagency Alignment of Statutes and Rules for children with disabilities recommended that a unified system of services for all children be developed before undertaking any major revisions in statutes and rules for children with disabilities.
- The 1998 Minnesota Legislature passed the Interagency Service for Children with Disabilities Act (Minnesota Statutes 125A.023 and 125A.027) for children and youth with disabilities ages 3 through 21.

Legislative Authority

The Interagency Services for Children with Disabilities Act was passed to assure the development of a coordinated, multi-disciplinary, interagency, intervention service system for children/youth/young adults with disabilities, and their families, throughout Minnesota. This legislation mandates the following:

- That each eligible child/youth have access to an interagency intervention service system that coordinates services and programs required in state and federal law.
- An Individual Interagency Intervention Plan be developed for each eligible child/youth/young adult.
- An interagency agreement or joint powers which outlines the responsibilities for the development and implementation of the coordinated system. This is the responsibility of the governing boards of IEIC's (Interagency Early Intervention Committees). Governing boards of IEIC's have been defined as the county boards (Social Services, Public Health and in some communities Corrections) and school boards.

The target population, for this mandate, are those children/youth/young adults from birth through 21 years of age eligible for special education and receiving services from one other public agency and their families. Children/youth/young adults are disabled as defined by Minnesota Statute 125A.02 (Special Education Statutes).

The statute [Minnesota Statutes (M.S. 125A.023 subdivision 3d (1-3)] identifies the programs and initiative to be coordinated through this interagency system and the IIP. They are the:

- Maternal and Health Program
- Individuals With Disabilities Education Act (IDEA)
- Medical Assistance
- Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act
- Head Start Act
- Rehabilitation Services
- Juvenile Court Act
- Children's Mental Health Collaboratives
- Family Service Collaboratives
- Family Community Support Plan
- Minnesota Care Program
- Local Public Health Act
- Community Social Service Act
- Community Interagency Transition Committees (CTIC)

Note: Also to be included are services provided under a health plan in conformity with an Individual Interagency Intervention Plan.

In addition to identifying the program and initiatives to be coordinated, the law states that: Nothing in this section increases or decreases the obligation of the state, county, regional agency, local school district or local agency or organization, to pay for education, health or social services. MS 125A.027 Subd 2 (b).

To further clarify the role of schools and counties, additional legislation was passed in 2001. This legislation, (MS 125A.023 Subd 4 (c)) states that school and county boards shall coordinate interagency services. Service responsibilities for eligible children, ages 3 to 21, shall be established in interagency agreements or joint powers board agreements. In addition, interagency agreements or joint powers board agreements shall be developed to establish agency responsibility to assure that coordinated interagency services are coordinated, provided, and paid for, and that payment is facilitated from public and private sources. In addition the statute further defined the roles of school boards and county boards.

School boards must:

- provide, pay for, and facilitate payment for special education services
- as required under sections 125A.05 and 125A.06.

County boards must:

- provide, pay for, and facilitate payment for those programs over which they have service and fiscal responsibility
- as referenced in section 125A.023, subdivision 3, paragraph (d), clause (1).

The statute phases-in the implementation of this coordinated system. The first phase (ages three through kindergarten entrance) was completed as of January 1, 2001. The up to age 9 phase was in place on July 1, 2001, and up to age 14 on July 1, 2002. The final phase, through age 21, is due for implementation on July 1, 2003.

As per the implementation dates, it is expected that the IIP will be used for all eligible children/youth up to age 14 beginning on July 1, 2002. The document meets all the requirements for plans through the age 21. It is not required that the IIP be used for children/youth from age 14 through age 21 until July 1, 2003. However, it is available now to be used over the age of 14, if local areas choose to do so.

The IIP Framework

Development of the IIP

The purpose of the IIP for children/youth/young adults with disabilities ages birth through 21 is to: Identify and organize both formal and informal supports to facilitate the development of a plan that addresses the concerns of the child/youth, family and young adult.

The IIP framework was modeled after two interagency plans currently in use, the Individualized Family Service Plan and the Collaborative Family Service Plan.

A MnSIC workgroup, with input from various state and local partners and families, developed a framework for the IIP. This framework included identification of data elements to be included and the arrangement of the data elements.

This workgroup analyzed the programs and initiatives to be coordinated and reviewed the statutes, rules and laws governing the development of written individualized service plans. The statutes, rules and laws outlined the data elements that were required to be included in each written plan. Common elements were identified. The outcome was a IIP with integrated data elements from the required existing plans. The plan elements integrated into the IIP were included if:

- They were required, and
- There was consensus and agreement by the state agencies governing those plans.

Plans Replaced by the IIP

The IIP is approved as a replacement for the plans, listed below. State agencies overseeing these programs and plans have approved the IIP for ages birth through 21. (A description of these plans as well as their specific requirements is located in the Inventory of Plan Required Elements located in the Appendices)

The IIP replaces these plans:

- Individualized Service Plan (ISP)
- Community Alternative Care Plan (CAC)
- Community Alternatives for Disabled Individuals Plan (CADI)
- Traumatic Brain Injury Plan (TBI)
- Individualized Education Plan (IEP)
- Individual Family Community Support Plan (IFCSP)
- Individual Family Service Plan (IFSP)
- Individual Community Support Plan (ICSP)
- Multi Agency Plan of Care

Plans Coordinated through the IIP

In addition to replacing plans integrated into the IIP, the IIP is approved to be the vehicle for coordinating some other plans. These other plans that are “coordinated through” the IIP process, do not have their data elements integrated into the IIP. They are to be included in the coordinated planning process. The term we have used to describe these plans is “coordinated through” because they are plans that:

- Have a single service/program focus (IPE)
- Are vendor or provider specific (IHP or IPP)
- Do not have statewide standardized plan elements (Corrections)
- Are specific or unique to a specific population (IPE)
- Are a legal contractual arrangement (Out of Home Placement Plan)
- Are used by agency’s with a smaller specialized population (SSB)

The concept of “coordinated through” means that it is expected that the process will include and facilitate the development of these plans during the development of the IIP. For example, managers of these plans would attend the IIP meeting and contribute their expertise and coordinated goals to the IIP and develop their plan.

These “coordinated through” the IIP process plans are:

- Individualized Plan for employment (IPE)
- Corrections
- Individualized Habilitation or Program Plans (IHP, IPP)
- Individualized Treatment Plan (ITP)
- Out of Home Placement Plans
- Nursing Care Plans
- Home Care Plans
- Other provider or program specific plans

The IIP Document

(All data elements do not need to be completed for every child/youth or young adult.)

After completion of the Core Elements section, other pages to be completed will depend on the child/youth’s age, services, plans the IIP replaces and agencies/ programs involved with the child/youth and family. The IIP includes a section for these unique elements called, Additional Required Elements. This section contains additional documentation items that are required for some or specific plans. The appendix includes some optional forms that can be used to support the planning process or to replace similar pages in the IIP.

The IIP contains all of the required elements of an individualized written plan for the plans listed above as replaced by the IIP. However, there is often additional information that is necessary to meet federal and state laws or rules which is required to be documented in a file, but not on the written plan. Examples of these include:

- Parental notification and authorization
- Confidentiality and privacy rights
- Appeals
- Mediation
- Due process
- Worksheets and supporting documents
- Extensive assessment/evaluation reports
- Billings forms

IIP Procedural Safeguards

It is assumed that procedural safeguards will be implemented throughout the system. Agencies should use the procedural safeguards that exist within their current system.

Data privacy and confidentiality issues need to be addressed by local systems to assure that practices are consistent with state and federal data practices acts such as:

- IDEA (Individual With Disabilities Education Act) FERPA

- Informed written consent from client/family (Tennesen Warning)
- MN Government Data Practices Act (20 USCA 1232g)
- HIPAA (Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996)

The IIP as a Process and a Document

The IIP is both a process and a document. The process that leads to the development of the IIP is the critical component to the development and implementation of a successful interagency, coordinated, single plan for a child/youth and their family.

As a document, the IIP is a collection of required elements of specific plans and facilitates coordination of other plans through the IIP. The document (IIP) simply allows for the program data requirements of a plan to reside together in a more comprehensive and integrated fashion. It describes the needed services and funding arrangements for a child/youth with disabilities and their family across a variety of programs, agencies and services.

As a process, the IIP provides a vehicle for families and providers for joint planning and sharing of resources. This joint planning process enhances family/ person centered planning and results in more holistic and community based services for the child/youth and family.

The IIP document as well as the process used to develop the IIP is meant to be flexible and fluid to allow it to meet the diverse and changing priorities and needs of children/youth/young adults with disabilities and their families.

In order for the IIP planning process to be successful, the IIP needs to be supported by and imbedded within a well coordinated interagency local system. This system should have made decisions regarding implementation issues, such as:

- Who starts the IIP process?
- Who writes the IIP?
- Who arranges the meetings?
- Who monitors the plan?
- Who manages the paperwork?
- What about disputes?
- What is a team?
- What about timelines? etc.
- Other

Only when these questions are addressed, will a team be able to fully operationalize itself to jointly plan, authorize and provide services through this more coordinated comprehensive approach.

The IIP Process Philosophies, Principles and Values

The IIP process is to be developed within a philosophical context which incorporates strengths based, family/person centered and wraparound principles. Each community should decide how to use these principles in the design of models, processes or procedures.

Examples of various philosophies and principles that currently guide the development of models, processes and procedures are:

- The wraparound process: The delivery of coordinated interdisciplinary services provided with the input of the child/youth and family and tailored to the strengths and needs of the individual child /youth and family.ⁱ As John VanDenBerg has described this process: Another term used interchangeably with wraparound is “individualized”. Wraparound is a simple process of people helping people. It means that a community starts with the child /youth and the family around them, and the friends and kin around the family, and asks a crucial question - “What do this child/youth and family, and sometimes the people around them, need to have a better life?” When we ask that question we really mean it- if the child /youth and family need something our services do not offer, we create a way to meet the identified needs with something new, individualized to the strengths, culture, preferences, and “ways” of the child/youth and family.ⁱⁱ

In order to practice a process such as wraparound:ⁱⁱⁱ

- A community collaborative structure needs to be in place, with broad representation, that manages the overall wraparound process and establishes the vision and mission. The governance agreement between the mandated partners for the MnSIC implementation is a starting point for the community collaborative structure.
- A lead organization is designated to function under the community collaborative structure and manages the implementation of the wraparound process. This can also be agreed to in the governance agreement between the county and the school, and their partners.
- A referral mechanism is established to determine the children/students/young adults and families to be included in the process.
- Service coordinators are designated to facilitate the wraparound process, conducting strengths/needs assessments; facilitating the team planning process; and managing the implementation of the services/support plan, in this case the IIP.
- With the referred child/youth and family, the service coordinator conducts strengths and needs assessment.
- The service coordinator works with the child/youth and family to form a child and family team.

- The child and family team functions as a team with the child and family engaged in an interactive process to develop a collective vision, related goals, and an individualized plan that is family centered and team based.
- The child and family team develops a crisis plan.
- Within the service/support plan, each goal must have outcomes stated in measurable terms, and the progress on each monitored on a regular basis.
- The community collaborative structure reviews the plans.

□ The Family Group Decision Making (FGDM)^{iv} process: Offers an approach to working with families involved with the child welfare system. Families are engaged and empowered by child welfare agencies to make decisions and develop plans that nurture and protect their children from enduring further abuse and neglect. FGDM is characterized as a practice which is family-centered, family strengths-oriented, culturally based, and community-based. It recognizes that families have the most information about themselves to make well-informed decisions and that individuals can find security and a sense of belonging within their families. It emphasizes that, first and foremost, families have the responsibility to not only care for, but also to provide a sense of identity for, their children. It encourages families to connect with their communities, and the communities to link with their families.

□ Family Centered Practice: Views the child/youth within a family system, believes that children/youth and families have strengths and involves families as decision makers. Family centered practices are those that empower families in their roles by building on their unique strengths as families and those of individual family members. The strengths, needs, choices and priorities of the family drive the delivery of services. The key elements are:

- Recognizes the family as the constant
- Recognizes need for collaboration
- Honors diversity
- Recognizes family strengths
- Sharing of complete information
- Encourages family-to-family support
- Incorporates the developmental needs of the child/youth and family
- Implements comprehensive programming
- Provides services responsive to families

Family centered services:

- Respect family values
- Trust the family
- Work together
- Flexible, creative and responsive to family needs and wishes
- Relate to the family as people
- Look at the whole picture
- Recognize parents as decision makers

- ❑ Family Systems Theory: Views the family as an interacting, reacting system which is delicately balanced and struggles to maintain that balance. A change or problem in one member of the system, thus affects the entire system.
- ❑ Person Centered Planning: Person-centered planning is a process. A person-centered approach means that all planning is driven by the individual and/or the individual's family. It is a process that guides people in developing a plan for the future and a means of implementing that plan. Person-centered planning often uses Personal Futures Planning, activities or strategies.
- ❑ Personal Futures Planning: is often used at different transition points, such as from early childhood to regular school programs and from school to adult services. It is also used for transition to new services, such as group home to apartment living and sheltered to supported employment.

Through Person-centered Planning, families are empowered to obtain support in the face of sometimes difficult decisions and uncertain futures.

Key Features of Person-centered Planning are:

- Focus on and driven by the student's strengths, interests and preferences
 - Student actively participates/drives the selection of the process and the participants
 - Student's preferences and interests drive the process
 - Not driven by the bureaucracy or "how we have always done it"
- Focus on capacities and opportunities - establishes a vision
 - Information is presented in a manner that highlights the positive
 - Student, facilitator and participants look for opportunities to expand a future vision
- The process is flexible, dynamic and informal
 - There is no one way
 - Flexibility of format and strategies is the key
 - Informal knowledge is critical to the process
 - The process typically occurs in an informal setting
 - The process evolves over time
- Requires collaborative team work with commitment to action
 - People come prepared to work together realizing that this is a process that requires creativity, collaboration and hard work
 - People come prepared to negotiate and compromise
 - This process cannot commit people who are not present at the planning meetings, nor require people who are present to do things or to carry out tasks once the meeting is over
 - The "key" people are committed to honoring and working to carry out the plan

- Requires an effective facilitator
 - Effective facilitators listen to people with an open mind, while helping to shape the personal dreams
- An environment is created where information is shared in a nonjudgmental manner

Summary

All of the above philosophies, principals and values, emphasize the importance of starting with the child, student, youth, family and young adult in identifying strengths, needs, priorities and concerns in the development of a system and the process which leads to the development of a IIP. Other common values to apply to the IIP system and document are:

- A team-driven process involves the family, child/youth, young adults natural supports, agencies, and community services working together to develop, implement, and evaluate the IIP.
- Families/young adults are full and active partners in every level of the process.
 - Families/young adults are offered a choice of a coordinated planning process or a single planning process.
 - Families/young adults choose who participates in the development and implementation of their child's IIP.
- Services and supports are individualized, built on strengths, and meet the needs of children/youth, families and young adults across life domains to promote success, safety, and permanence in home, school and community.
- The process is culturally competent, building on the unique values, preferences and strengths of children/youth, families and young adults, and their communities.
- The child/youth, families and young adults teams have flexible approaches and adequate and flexible funding.
- Services are community based. Community based includes home, school and community.
- Outcomes are determined and measured for the system, for the program, and for the individual child/youth, families and young adults.

In order for a successful process leading to the development of a IIP, system components must be addressed:

- An interagency structure is in place to manage the cross-agency process and determine the vision and mission.
 - For IIP implementation, county and school boards have signed a governance agreement to determine the interagency coordination and developed the necessary policies and procedures to ensure cross-agency planning.
 - Communities may also chose to use an existing collaborative structure such as: children's mental health, family services collaboratives or any other existing collaborative structure to coordinate the MnSIC implementation.

- The system has decided on how to implement service coordination responsibilities. Some models include hiring a specific person to assume these roles, other models support the division of responsibilities for service coordination among team members or to rotate the responsibility depending on the needs and wishes of the family/student.
- The system has addressed basic questions regarding policies and procedures.

The IIP document, contains the mandated plan requirements of many programs and services. However, there may be additional forms that may be required such as applications, consents, due process, billing forms, etc. which are supplemental documentation pieces that are not required to be on the written individualized plan but, may need to be kept in a file.

The IIP as a process, is the product of interaction, collaboration and partnerships between the child/youth/young adult, the family, the community, and every agency involved in providing services to a child/youth/young adult and family. The premise behind the IIP is that every team member on the IIP contributes resources to improve the child's/youth's, family's and young adult's functioning, knowing no single entity can accomplish it alone. The greatest improvements take place when people work together.

CORE: Description of Child/Student

Purpose: To identify the strengths/current status and concerns/needs of the child/student. This description of the child/student is written at the team meeting with the family taking the lead. It must include all of the required elements (i.e., special education, health, social services, including the waivers).

Name and Date

The child/student's name and the date the page was completed must be filled out on every page.

Address the Following Areas as Required

Check every applicable box as required for the plans addressed in the IIP. For each area checked, enter summary statements about strengths/current status and concerns/needs made by all the team members as a result of their observations and evaluations/assessments. To meet the requirements of many agency documents, a complete description of the child/student would include statements in all of the areas. This should be written in plain language. Use as many additional pages as necessary. Include in here also the Present Level(s) of Educational Performance and Statements of Education Needs. Describe how the child's/student's disability affects his or her involvement and progress in the general curriculum. How does the disability affect learning at school? How does the disability impact transition planning? Understanding the impact of the child's disability on participating in the child's/student's general curriculum is important. It helps to determine services and accommodations the child needs in order to participate in the general curriculum to the maximum extent possible.

Area

Enter the name of each of the checked titles in the blanks.

Strengths/Current Status

Enter the information describing the child/student's strengths and/or current status as discussed at the team meeting. This includes statements regarding the child/student's present level of performance. Describe the child/student in terms of age appropriateness in comparison to typical peers.

Concerns/Needs

Enter summary information regarding the concerns and/or needs for the child/student as discussed at the team meeting. These need statements should give a reason and identify specific skills, behaviors, or learning to be addressed in the outcomes/goals.

Core: Shared Outcome— Goals/Outcomes, Objectives/Indicators, and Services

Purpose: This section is for defining shared outcomes, goals/outcomes of desired results of the activities, instruction or therapy for the child/student based on the needs and concerns from the description of the child/student. An objective/indicator outlines the steps that are taken to achieve the goals/outcomes.

The right side of the page identifies the services necessary to meet the needs of the child/student. This includes the location, amount, frequency, duration of the services, and who is responsible for the goals/outcomes and objectives/indicators. It also identifies the services the child/student needs that are not available and the actions taken to develop the services.

Note: Some plans list significant detail in the goals/outcomes or objectives/indicators sections which may not need to be included verbatim in this plan. Instead, the plan may address less detail and refer to a more detailed plan, such as a nursing care plan.

Name and Date

The child/student's name and the date the page was completed must be filled out on every page.

Shared Outcome

It is recommended that IIP teams develop shared outcomes. This is centered on the belief that it is in the best interests of children/students/young adults/and families and agencies to jointly work on common concerns across multiple environments. The term shared outcomes was developed to promote the development of interagency coordinated overarching statements of desired change or difference when there is a multi-agency common concern for a child/student/young adult or family across home, school and community environments.

Several definitions have been developed to explain the shared outcome concept. The following are “generic” words which represent common concepts among the various plans integrated into or coordinated through the IIP. These definitions are for the purpose of developing common understanding across agencies, programs and plans. Each agency will continue to rely on the laws governing the plans and write their goals/outcomes based on their individual plan requirements.

Each plan's goals/outcomes and objective/indicators are developed based on the collection of data. Data is defined as factual information obtained through assessment, evaluation, screening or observation and is used as a basis for developing a baseline of performance or ability, determining outcomes, planning for services, and used by each agency to develop its own plan components. The data, obtained through each agency's methods, is shared with the team of representatives made up of each agency involved with the family and the family. From the data the child's or family's needs are determined. Key words recognizable by agencies for this are: evaluation, assessment, screening, eligibility determination.

A shared outcome is defined as language that describes the change or difference expected for a child/student/young adult/ or family as determined by the IIP team based on data. In order to address the identified needs, outcomes are developed and agreed upon. Outcomes describe the desired expectations for an individual or family as determined by the team. Outcomes may be shared by all or some of the agencies involved ie: shared outcomes. They may also exist for just one agency. Based upon the outcomes, each agency uses its own accountability process to measure an individual's or family's progress toward an outcome. For example, outcomes in which the education agency is involved would require, in most cases, goals and objectives. (Sometimes an outcome requires services only, and not goals, if only modifications or accommodations are required in order to permit the child to progress in the general curriculum. Fed. Reg. Vol. 64, No. 48, Friday, March 12, 1999, p. 12472.) Services, modifications, and accommodations, as determined by the team, are then listed, just as in a traditional IEP. For the various agency participants, the accountability process and services component may look different. Key words recognizable by agencies for this are long term goals, benchmarks, results.

Progress is defined as forward movement of a child/student/young adult/ or family skill development toward a stated outcome as measured by each agency's accountability process. The IIP does not change how accountability is monitored or progress is measured for children. Key words are: short term objectives, goals, indicators.

Services are those activities engaged in (paid for, or provided or arrange) by an agency to assist the individual/ families in progressing toward the outcome.

Goals/Outcomes

Number the goal/outcome. Use as many goal/outcome pages as necessary. Describe the goals/outcomes to be achieved. This may come from a single need or a combination of needs identified on the description page. There should not be an outcome unless a need has been identified.

Objectives/Indicators

Each goal/outcome should have at least two objectives.

These should address the tasks or activities required to assist the child/student in achieving the desired goal/outcome. Each objective should include the skills to be performed, conditions for evaluation, criteria for evaluation, evaluation procedures, and timelines written according to each plan's requirements. These are used to determine progress toward the goal/outcome and effectiveness of the service.

Services

The Services pages are designed to be an interagency record, documenting the services provided by multiple service providers from education, public health, human services, and other community partners and individuals, as well as by the family. It documents how agencies will work together and share in the work toward the same goals using different strategies, focusing on different objectives, or coordinating efforts on the same objective in accordance with each agency's expertise and responsibilities.
